Social risk groups – Sell and Learn!

The hand-made, ecological jewelry can be used as a selling product. You can sell the jewelry on local markets (you organize a stand together with your young people and encourage them to use all their entrepreneur skills to sell the products). After successful selling transaction it is advisable to raise money and with the use of the raised funds take students on a trip/meeting with a local entrepreneurship who will give a lecture on how to establish a business. Such visit is an excellent way to show people who are socially excluded, that there are many options for them and that their life and future is in their own hands. What is more, it helps them overcome their fears, teaches them how to work in group and shows them the importance and beauty of ecological products which they did on their own.
